Zarqawi admits being 'lightly' wounded in website message

DAMascus—Al-Qaida's leader in Iraq Abu Musab al-Zarqawi said he was "lightly" wounded but still "fighting alongside his fighters in Iraq," in a video message attributed to him posted on the Internet.

"After the information according to which I was seriously wounded... I want to reassure you that all this is pure rumour and is totally unfounded... but there are light wounds," said the video as filmed in Iraq.

It was not possible to verify the authenticity of the statement, posted on the website on Wednesday following a series of anonymous e-mailing messages about the health of the Palestinian-born immigrant and his role in the insurgency.

Zarqawi, Iraqi militant wanted most, said in the message that he was still in Iraq and would take part in the struggle against the "Crusaders" and the coalition of forces, according to the message, which was dated May 27.

"I am currently with my brothers and my people in the land of Mesopotamia, where I am participating in combat against the Crusaders and the invasion of religion," the video said.

The author of the message said that the Internet place was responsible "as planned" adding that fugitive al-Qaida leader Osama bin Laden had also submitted.

"If the plan is successfully carried out, its consequences will make all Muslims happy and will open the heavens," he continued.

The video showed Zarqawi, particularly their United Arab Emirates. At all times, the supporting the United States, saying they without that support "the situation of the American people will deteriorate."

A statement last week on an Internet website said that Iraqi militant wanted most was wounded and "remained" had passed to a doctor, while another message Friday said he was in good health and directing insurgent operations.

Another statement on Saturday said Zarqawi was recovering in response to a security post launched by Iraqi forces against what is believed that resulted in wounding of his brother.

The new message also came after The Sunday Times newspaper in London reported that Zarqawi was named to have after a US air strike left him with a chest and leg wounds in his chest, a charge heavily denied by Tehran.

Gen. Richard Myers, the top military officer of the US Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Tuesday that the United States "wants to believe" the claims that Zarqawi has been wounded.

The one-legged commander was featured in video by US military as the "Operation Mongoose" leader of the Iraqi insurgency.

4 Americans, 4 Italians killed in Iraq crashes

BAEIDAJ—Four American and four Italian military personnel were killed in separate aircraft crashes, military officials said Tuesday as Iraq's prime minister condemned the attack of a top-level political leader by US forces.

Monday's 12-hour duration of Iraqi leader Nuri al-Maliki (Abdullah Abdul-Karim) did little to help American efforts to make Iraq's semi-autonomous Iraqi-controlled territory back into the political fold. Many tanks had slipped by the rule of power of the country's Shi'ite majority, which claims political and control of the country's oil fields.

Iraq's ongoing insurgency which has killed more than 700 people since the new Shiite-led government was announced April 30, is believed to be strongly linked to the so-called Iraqi resistance.

Violence continued Tuesday with gunfire shooting down Iraqi police officers in the city of Baghdad, as Iraq's government working for Iraq's 77th division in Iraq, as the left in Iraq to the north city of Mosul, said the Islamic State of Iraq (ISI) had been killed in a battle.

Insurgents have in the past targeted both the states, which have been named, and in Iraq's army. One of its commanders, Haidar al-Badr, was killed in a helicopter crash, reportedly killed in the Iraq city.

OPINION

Martial law days again?

EDITOR: Secretary Raul Gonzales's desire to file indictments against charges against any person who may threaten the present administration are no bank to the days of colonial authoritarianism.

The Philippine legislature approved the Revised Penal Code, which contains the provision on sedition, on Dec. 8, 1930, when the Philippines was still an American colony, and President Marcos amended it on July 24, 1976 through Executive Order 187. The law is originally passed, under the provision, of the president, the amendment, for the protection of the former tyrant.

The law prohibits people from uttering sedition speeches that may tend to undermine the rule of the foreign power; the amendment restricts within this direction and provisions from releasing any like content to the media of the "Waging-Sedition."

But we are now in year 2000, long lived from the students of the American colonists and the future. Why then does the attorney of justice threaten to file cases for issuing to sedition against people critical of the administration? The public will judge them sometime as it has judged the resistance of former general Francisco Nino.

Moreover, with police of criminal case, the right of the people to speak against the administration means of violation of the freedom of speech. The only way that this freedom may be violated is when such speech poses a "clear and present danger." In the words of Justice Holmes of the US Supreme Court: "The question in every case is whether the words tend to incite to such consequences and are of such nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has a right to prevent. It is a question of proximity and degree."

Right before the very law is, the only "clear and present danger" that the justice ministry may rightfully prevent is his own being confirmed by the Commission on Appointments and not the restriction against the administration.

Invention for our times

It has to be noted to the news item about "Taglog" (Telco) ability to work in car engines. (PCA, 5/1/00) I create Pala Plama discovered the "telco" in the car engine. It is named a device now called the Three Super Turbo Charger. The invention facilitates the burning of gasoline in the combustion, thus eliminating the carbon monoxide con-ting out of the car engine. The Department of Energy and the Department of Science and Technology considered a new to eliminate the effectiveness of the device. The test showed enhanced engine efficiency which means savings in gasoline consumption and cleaner new pollution. I hope this turbo charger will be used in starting or limiting the pollution, as well as in cutting down fuel consumption. I strongly urge our government, DOE, DOST and the Philippine Council for Science of the Philippines (pc) to assist Plama and other concerned inventors and researchers to solve to solve the needs of our.

Mitigating the impact of sky-high fuel prices

WHILE motorists reel from the onslaught of rising fuel prices, their attention must be fixed and focused on what the political critics of the foreign administration would like the public to believe. The government has actually introduced certain fuel-saving measures that could help motorists without the sting just of fact. The fuel-saving measures in the form of several road development projects that the Metro Manila Development Authority and the Department of Public Works and Highways have introduced recently. Unfortunately, most projects have not received the media attention they deserve.

Some examples of these fuel-saving projects on the potential roadways that the MMDA installed along certain intersections of the Alabang-Flyway in Cebu, Rial. These works went, together with the new 2000-cc car design, aerodynamic projects, have really improved the flow of vehicle traffic in this rapidly modernized traffic problem that need to improve their lives.

At a recent, intensive news item from Cebu, Cebu to Manila, these Angeles would now take 30 minutes less than it used to. A 20-minute reduction of travel time would really mean a fuel savings of about two liters a day or 10 liters a month. If a motorist uses an installed gasoline which costs around P25 a liter, that means a cost savings of P1,000 (P25 x 40) a month.

In an Alabang-based motorist like me who goes to Manila to Cebu every day and uses about 40 liters of fuel a month, I would studently enjoy a cost savings of P1,000 a liter (P1,000/MG) in a month. I am therefore still paying about P24.00 (P25.00 P1.00) a liter to my fuel. This is the same price I paid a year ago before gasoline skyrocketed to all this high. Due to the higher fuel mileage I now enjoy, I therefore only need to consume 300 liters of fuel a month instead of about 350. That I need to pay 300 liters of fuel.

I must admit that under the Ayatnidad administration, the services in Metro Manila are less or maintained than during the previous administrations. Due to better traffic management, the flow of vehicle traffic in the major thoroughfares has improved noticeably. Much of the credit should go to the MMDA, the DPWH and the cooperation of Metro Manila local officials who have finally realized that good governance means with doing the doable.

One would say that these traffic improvement projects have a limited impact for they only involve smaller parking through them. But, the more, these road works will soon offer a more practical way of mitigating the high costs of fuel and can be highly improved in other areas prone to traffic jams. In making the best of it, they are more effective than the standard approach of protesting "inefficiency" and "greed" of companies to lower or maintain the selling prices of their fuel products, when world-market realities and the law of supply and demand drive otherwise.

Unsubstantiated allegations

THIS is in relation to the news article written in Am. Agilines (Pineson) current President Chris Mangapang. Accusations of transferring from banking operations (PCA, 5/21/00). He also alleged that members of the First Family have been receiving protection money that money.

All these are having unsubstantiated allegations. Even President himself has admitted this. Therefore, he continues with the description.

Perhaps, President is only trying to get media mileage at the expense of the members of the First Family, by passing them on trial by publicity. However, such has no foundation. Claims, Pineson is charging to the country as a whole.

It seems that the opposition, to which I named before, seems to me as the last against President Arroyo, thinking that the same does cause the downfall of Joseph Estelita (January 2001). But they are wrong.

Estelita was current because of gender and inexperience. "Surging gate" was only the tip of the iceberg. Estelita alleged on various gas things mangapang's money including the public case given to him. In the process, he is charged with a lot of the bank and even the security Commission.

There are no substantial between the Estelita and the defense administration. The former is shown as inefficient and corrupt, while the latter is confirmed as honest and honest. The latter is shown as corrupt and corrupt with actual records in continuing legislation. The former thought that popularity is enough, while the latter believes in communication and dialogue, and in representing the people.

Power rate cut in Panay stopped by appeals court

By Hector F. Bengzon Jr.
PDI Filipino Business

CELEST CITY—The Court of Appeals has stopped the Energy Regulatory Commission (ERC) from enforcing its order to Panay Electric Co. (PEC) to reduce its charges to P5 per kilowatt-hour.

In a decision promulgated on May 27 and signed by Associate Justice Antonio Carpio, the GRAC issued a 60-day temporary restraining order (TRO) to the ERC to "enjoin and desist" from implementing a resolution dated May 8, 2004.

In its resolution, the ERC ordered PEC to subscribe to rates and reduce charges.

The TRO was issued following a petition for review filed by PEC against the ERC order.

Since he withdrew the ERC and the intervenors of the case to comment on the petition in 30 days, the order gave PEC the right to enjoy the TRO.

The intervenors include former Senator Ernesto Maceda, the national shipping administrator, Malabon, the party-list group Bataan, Manila, President Juan Dela Cruz, Duterte, and the Environmental Concerns Division.

The petition for review is part of PEC's last-ditch efforts to prevent the implementation of the rate adjustment, which would result in a loss of around 40,000 pesos.

PEC is the sole power distributor in Iloilo City's 140 barangays. The company earlier warned that blackouts could be the city if it would implement the ERC order.

Gracía filed a complaint against the PEC officials for alleged gross negligence when they are using the warning.

Gracia's Office now Edward Alarcon, PEC's senior vice president for operations, Joe Macapagal, general manager, and Neil Pardo, chief accountant.

By Carlos F. Gomez
PDI Filipino Business

SAN CARLOS CITY—President Gloria Arroyo on Monday launched the national bio-ethanol program, which will push the use of ethanol from sugar as a fuel alternative to ease the country's dependence on oil imports.

To start the program, the President ordered the signing of contracts for the P1.5-billion ethanol and power plant—the first in the country, which will be completed later.

She also gave copies of the contracts, including the investment agreement between the private firm Brinsford and the National Development Corp. (NDC) to get up equity needed for the plant.

The plant will be built by San Carlos Brinsford Inc. (SCBI), a joint venture of Brinsford Philippines, the NDC and three groups of sugarcane farmers.

Annual supply

Brinsford Philippines Inc., Caribou, Louisiana, and the NDC have awarded the 300,000-ton-of-sugar agreement signed an agreement to supply 200,000 of the 300,000 tons of sugar needed by SCBI every year.

McAtee also presented a contract of 100 to supply Brinsford Corp. 30 million liters of ethanol a year, as well as a copy of SCBI's joint agreement with San Jose Brinsford, owner of the 25-hectare property where the plant will be built.

SCBI agreed a contract to provide the Visayas Brinsford Cebu Plant Electric Division Corp. with 100,000 tons of sugar.

McAtee told reporters that the world is in a race to build ethanol plants. He said that the world is in a race to build ethanol plants. He said that the world is in a race to build ethanol plants.

"With crude prices steadily doubling in the world market in the last 12 months, it's not hard to see why people are looking for alternative fuels," he said. "We want to see energy independence take hold with energy cost reduction."

He said the successful utilization of ethanol blends, combined with energy generated from sugar, would reduce the volume of the country's oil imports, help diversify the sugar industry and give extra income to sugarcane farmers and workers.

Exports

The problem of excess of 200,000 metric tons in sugar output experienced by producers in the past will be addressed as the volume will be diversified ethanol production.

McAtee pointed out that the country used to be only 90 percent dependent on crude oil as primary source of energy.

But she said that during her administration, this was brought down to 27 percent because "we have been using indigenous sources of power that are abundant in the country such as geothermal, natural gas, wind and coal ethanol."

"We are now importing less than 40 percent for energy but for now, we are importing 90 percent for gasoline and diesel so we are still very dependent on importation," she said.

"In the future we will produce ethanol from sugarcane, sugarcane and sugarcane. We will use the sugarcane to produce ethanol," she said.

Construction of the plant will begin in the first quarter of 2006. Operations will start in the second half of 2007.

Joe M. Zaldarria Jr., managing director of Brinsford Philippines, said the plant would produce 200 million liters of ethanol a year.

It will also be capable of producing 100,000 liters of bio-ethanol per day or 20 million liters per year, using 300,000 tons of cane.

"This will contribute significantly to the country's total requirements for a 5 percent gasoline ethanol blend," Zaldarria said. "The plant will also produce 100,000 tons of power a day."

The byproducts of the ethanol will be used to produce bio-fertilizers for farmers, he said.

Naia 3 dispute settled; opening seen before Xmas

By Clarissa S. Batino

TAIENKOKA Corp. of Japan has agreed to complete the unfinished work on the 50-story Aquino International Airport Terminal 3 on terms favorable to the Philippine government, according to Transportation Secretary Leandro Mendoza.

Mendoza said he was confident that with the Japanese contractor ensuring the structural integrity of Naia 3, the terminal airport project would be opened before Christmas.

It was originally set for commercial operation in 2011.

The Manila International Airport Authority and TAIENKOKA agreed yesterday on the final terms of the contract to complete Naia 3, Mendoza said in an interview.

The Philippine government gave TAIENKOKA until the end of May to decide whether to test it would finish the job. Otherwise, the government would hire a third-party contractor and bring in a new team to lead the opening of the terminal in the first quarter of 2009.

The Japanese contractor, which built international airports in Rio de Janeiro, Colombia, Bali, Japan, Mexico, Moscow and Singapore, said it will MULTINATIONAL Institutions International Finance Corp. (IFC) and the Asian Development Bank (ADB) have jointly agreed to provide about $60 million in loans to a special-purpose entity led by Deutsche Bank to help clean up the government's bad housing loans.

The new firm, to be called Philippine Housing Inc., will buy the bad loans of state housing agency National Home Mortgage Finance NHMC, which sold highly delinquent loans worth P11.5 billion to Deutsche Bank Real Estate Global Opportunities Fund II (DROFII) at a discounted price of P5.12 per share.

DROFII bid, which NHMC said was the best it got last year, was within the government's floor price of 50 percent of the real loan portfolio value.

You can turn your back on MPHL or Male Pattern Hair Loss. It is caused by increased levels of DHT (dihydrotestosterone) in the scalp.<sup>1</sup> MPHL is characterized by loss of visible hair over certain areas of your scalp.<sup>2</sup> Chances are it will get worse as time goes by if left untreated, unless you will be bold enough to do something about MPHL. Research indicates that seeking early medical treatment can slow down hair loss and in some cases hair can even be regrown.<sup>1</sup>

Ask your dermatologist about ways with which you can fight male pattern hair loss.

Now MPHL will not be a burden on your shoulders anymore. You just have to be bold, so you don't have to be bald.

The Pinoy penchant for feasting is very evident in the Pahiyas festival

THINGS in good season to believe that fiestas, those chain-sawing beaches and fires and fairs, are the main tourist attractions in the country.

During fiestas, we see it a stranger: doors are opened for people to come and go at their pleasure, and there is always an abundance of food on the table. We do not open planning and preparing the region's specialties for visitors from the city as well as neighborhood friends for one or two days of fiesta. (And some will find us stopping up a little bit late for "take home.")

One of the most popular fiestas in the country is the Pahiyas in Quezon, which is held every May 15. Thousands of people flock to the otherwise sleepy town of Lucban to take photos of the houses covered in colorful Aking (rice) which are called as haga (haga).

Aside from taking the townships into one fresh vegetables, fish, bamboo poles and painted bunnies to decorate every square inch of the facade of their houses.

But don't expect the doors to be ready the day before the fiesta. The people of Lucban guard their designs, privately, as many houses are not fully decorated until the day of the fiesta itself. As to prevent any outsiders from stealing the designs that cost weeks to plan and two days to set up for.

The crew for the show arrived in Lucban after six and a half hours of traveling for what would normally be a three-hour trip from Manila... it was as if everyone wanted to go to Quezon. But, we were told, the traffic would be worse on the actual day of the fiesta.

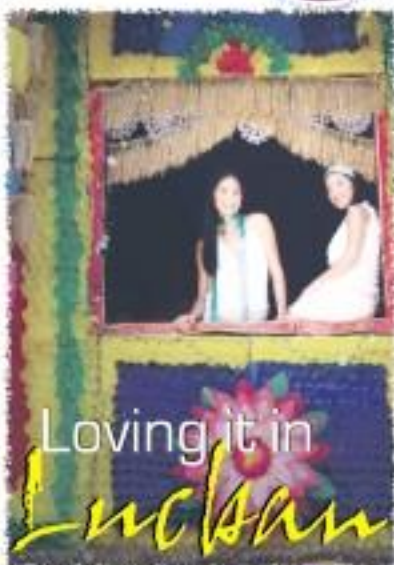

Given, our struggles, at least we saw fresh, delicious, and delicious food. However, our plans were thwarted the moment we got to the town proper. It was already late afternoon, but most of the houses were lighted better people were waiting up, looking at the

After taking a few shots, we returned to the Union Flies River Game, which was home, but low on expenditure from the Indians and land, it was. Although the place is located on the banks of the river, the most of the game was just as heavy as it was in the town proper—and with just a small food.

During the night, our models under the models drove inside a setting (as to spread in the middle of the climate, as we want from door to door asking for permission from the owners to drive the models under their houses).

All but one (who seemed suspicious of the photo) one of the girls was wearing a gilly apron, although we were also laughing with suspicion.

"You were really shook up last sitting in here at Hospital Juan Egozcue," he murmured quietly, respectfully. "No because he, at Hospital Egozcue, don't go at Unica-Salva." Some hospitalists were more eager than the others—like that woman who brought out photos of her relatives in Manila, a couple of ladies who tried to get us to discuss more on, seriously. One house was filled with hispanic born kids, tried to get a peek of the beautiful decorated one.

There is nothing quite like a Philippine fiesta—one, some people may think of it as a waste of time and money, some even hand-up bills upon a year's service, but these occasions tend what happens in these regions, like other they have suffered in the world, but it is something to think that there is nothing gained from celebrating fiestas such as the Philippine
